Fall 2013 Courses

Please Note:

- All course descriptions are online. HESB course descriptions for Fall 2013 are also available on the bulletin board near the office - 337 O’Shaughnessy.
- All HESB classes require approval: Come to our office to be advised and get approval for HESB labeled courses.
- NON-HESB labeled courses are not handled through the Hesburgh Program Office: Go to the appropriate department(s) if approval is needed for NON-HESB labeled courses.
- Most of our curriculum consists of cross-listed courses. You need to register for HESB classes ASAP after you receive approval because many departments check online regularly and reclaim unused seats for their own students.

Prerequisites

Introductory courses in Economics and American Politics are prerequisites for the minor. Students who have not fulfilled the prerequisite(s) through AP Credit or during their First Year of Studies, should enroll in one or both of the following ASAP.

Economics

ECON 20010 Principles of Microeconomics

Political Science

HESB 20000-01 American Politics (POLS 20100) 09:25-10:15 MWF Layman

Electives

To complete the Hesburgh Program curriculum, a student must complete 3 elective courses; one in Research Tools, one in Values, and one in Institutions and Processes. Please choose your electives outside your major(s) or other minor(s).

1. Research Tools

These courses provide the student with an introduction to the tools and methods that are used to structure empirical evidence to inform public policy. Research tools courses can be broadly defined in two categories. One group offers students training in rational analysis. Another group of courses introduces tools and methods for analyzing empirical evidence.
The following courses fulfill the “Research Tools” requirement. (Choose one)

For all HESB courses, get approval from the Hesburgh Office

Cross-Listed with Economics
HESB 30102-01 Intermediate Micro Theory (ECON 30010-02) 02:00-03:15 MW Rath

HESB 30101 Statistics for Social Research (SOC 30903) 09:30-10:45 TR Andrew

2. Values

The Values section addresses two different value dimensions of public policy. First, public policy choices are made within a context of assumed values and preferences. Second, we assess policy choices and their consequences in light of ethical arguments and claims. Values courses contribute to the student's capacity for reflection about normative aspects of public policy. What is the idea of the good that we seek to achieve through a specific policy? Values courses may also introduce the student to analytic tools for assessing the ethical implications of public policy choices.

The following courses fulfill the “Values” requirement. (Choose one).

For all HESB courses, get approval from the Hesburgh Office.
